Growing hearts, minds and wellbeing is Chelsea O'Brien's passion. As both the founder and executive director of the non-profit educational farm, The Clarkston Family Farm, she can do just that.

O'Brien works tirelessly to uphold the mission at her farm, to educate and inspire the next generation about healthy food, the value of nature and sustainability while doing this in the context of a positive community gathering space.

Since January 2017 the farm has provided nature-based outdoor educational programming and events to over 13,000 kids of all ages and abilities.

Join us on March 17 to hear Chelsea discuss the farm's mission, it's creation and how it has thrived largely because of the innovation, hard work and commitment of women-run businesses. Our evening begins with an informal Meet & Greet to welcome new and returning members and guests.

Event cost is $17 and includes light snacks, dinner (vegetarian available), beverage, Meet & Greet, networking and presentation.

RSVP by Wed., Mar 11 to Jo Ann at donandjoann@wowway.com
